

The Hertie School of Governance (Prof. Johanna Mair) is participating in an EU level project on “Social Enterprise as a Force for more inclusive and innovative Societies”. Our team will focus on the organization of social enterprises in market and society and examine the nature, logic, limits and drivers of new organizational configurations.

In connection with this project we are seeking applications for a

Post-Doc Position (m/f)

The position is part-time and can be arranged as a 50% or 75% position. The duration is approximately 24 months or possibly longer. The contract would start as soon as possible (ideally in February 2014).

The Post-doc will support the following main project activities:

- Detect models/modes of governance and mapping of organizational forms
- Understanding the antecedents and conditions driving emergence and adoption of different governance and organizational models/modes.
- Analyzing the consequences
- Identifying emerging trends and policy needs

Candidate profile:

- Recent PhD in the social science.
- Demonstrated experience or interest in research at the intersection of organizational theory, governance and institutions.
- Fluency in English, analytical and excellent writing skills.

Please note that this position is also open to a candidate currently doing a PhD and transitioning into a Post-doc position during the course of the project.

The Post-doc will take a leading role in this project and work in an international research team that also includes a PhD student based at Hertie. The candidate is also encouraged to develop further her/his own research agenda with this project.

To apply:

Expressions of interest including a CV are invited until December, 15th 2013. Please contact Prof. Johanna Mair: mair@hertie-school.org .
